

On October 5, the Future of Children, a joint project of Princeton University and the Brookings Institution, will release the latest issue of its journal. The issue and the accompanying policy brief review the problems encountered by working families and propose policies for both the public and private sectors aimed at reducing work-family pressures. The event will begin with an overview of the journal and the policy brief by Jane Waldfogel of Columbia University and Ron Haskins of Brookings. Following the overview, Maryella Gockel of Ernst & Young will give a keynote address on how her firm, known as a leader in family policies, deals with work-family issues. A panel of experts will respond and discuss what businesses, communities and the federal government can do to assist working families.

When: Wednesday, October 5, 2011; 9:00am to 11:00am Eastern Standard Time

Where: Falk Auditorium, the Brookings Institution
1775 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20036

To register and for more information, click here.

The Future of Children is a collaboration of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University and the Brookings Institution. For more information, please visit www.futureofchildren.org

Join us on Facebook and Twitter:

We have joined Facebook and Twitter! Please click here to become a fan on Facebook or click here to follow us on Twitter.

Please do not reply to this email as it returns to an unmonitored email account. To contact The Future of Children staff, please send an email to foc@princeton.edu.

To unsubscribe click here