

YOU ARE INVITED TO ATTEND A FUTURE OF CHILDREN EVENT FOCUSING ON TEACHER QUALITY

WHERE: BROOKINGS INSTITUTION, 1775 MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE, NW
WASHINGTON, DC

WHEN: MARCH 28, 2007, 9:00-11:00 AM

RSVP: www.brookings.edu/comm/events/20070328.htm.

As Congress considers reauthorization of the No Child Left Behind Act, policymakers, advocates, and parents are concerned about how to meet the requirement that states provide every student with high-quality teachers. To address these concerns, the latest The Future of Children journal focuses on “Excellence in the Classroom,” which will be the focus of a March 28th public event.

A slate of panelists including members of Congress, journal contributors, and other researchers and administrators, will discuss options for improving teacher quality including in-service training, mentoring, and the recruitment of new, high-quality teachers.

After each panel discussion there will be an audience question and answer session.

If you would like to attend this public event at the Brookings Institution in Washington, DC, please RSVP at <http://www.brookings.edu/comm/events/20070328.htm>.

The Future of Children “Excellence in the Classroom” will be available free-of-charge on our website, www.futureofchildren.org, along with its accompanying policy brief and executive summary as of March 28, 2007.

The Future of Children is a co-production of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University and the Brookings Institution.

The Future of Children: A Publication of The Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University and The Brookings Institution.